The Burns Supper has a long tradition in Scotland and in the United States. Robert Burns is the most famous Poet in Scotland's history. He is considered the immortal bard.

The Burns Supper is our way to celebrate all things Scottish, (e.g., culture, music, attire, etc....) The evening is formal with many wearing black-tie. We encourage at least a coat and tie for gentlemen and dress clothes for ladies.

Robert Burns
 (1759-1796)

This year's program will feature music by Highland Reign & Southern Indiana Pipes and Drums, a five course meal, poetry and the ambiance of the famous Tudor Room. Other venues would cost more than fifty dollars.
